AS9100

Based on ISO 9001, the AS9100 series has been revised to reflect the changes to ISO 9001, which were made in 2015. In addition, there were revisions and additional requirements added to the aerospace-specific requirements, e.g., product safety, counterfeit parts prevention, risk-based thinking combined with operational risk management.

Don't delay. The AS9100 D revision was published and made available in fall 2016. With a shorter timeline available for transition to the revised standard, there is less time to prepare your auditors, managers, and quality personnel for the September 2018 deadline.
